

PORNOGRAPHY

Pornography is highly addictive, and like other addictions, is destructive. The images you see will remain with you forever. You might not think about it, but pornography can be found in movies, TV, magazines, music, videos and the internet.

Like other addictions, viewing pornography gives temporary satisfaction but has to be repeated over and over again until it becomes the focus and purpose of life. Other important parts of your life are lost, ignored or destroyed. With addiction, curiosity eventually moves on to hard core pornography and a desire to act out those things that he or she has seen.

This second phase of pornography includes viewing more pornography and finding others who will participate with him or her. The addiction, like others, has no limits, but can lead to abuse of self and of others.

FBI files of serial killers report that they have one thing in common – addiction to pornography. The same is true for those who sexually abuse children. Since it varies from person to person how long it will take to become addicted, the wise choice is to stay away completely.

Pornography is a serious invasion of your mind and should be completely avoided. The images you see will remain with you forever.
